

Will God Send Judgment?

God send judgment? He does not have to do so as mankind who disobey God bring it upon themselves. God tells us and has told humankind how to live so they may live; but, if they refuse to listen and act rightly, the weight then is upon the heads of the rebellious. We tell our children and even adults, "Do NOT (add something here) ensuring they understand, of course, because we want them to be spared of injury; etc. The child or adult does not do as they are told and suffer injury or even death. Are we at fault because they rebelled? If they were injured or killed did we bring that judgment upon them? Of course not as they brought it upon themselves and suffered the consequences for their actions. Rhetorically, is God responsible for the consequences of rebellion against what He said not to do?
